According to the San Francisco Merchant, if we allow the supposed increase in Cuba to offset the supposed decrease in Brazil, the result will be an increase of 300,000 tons. Should it increase similarly this year, the excess would be accounted for and prices might be expected to rule as in 1880. This is on the worst showing for the crops, and the best possible showing for consumption. The best show ing for the crops, however, would give the surplus available this year as 450,000 tons and the increase of consumption 200,000 tons, being still a surplus of 250,000 tons. On the whole therefore, people who have been accustomed to put two lumps of sugar in a cup of tea or coffee may continue to do so without fear of the almshouse hereafter as a consequence of their reckless-
